Call for participants

About this research: This research informs about aspects of cultural heritage relevant in school when teaching and learning. The aim of this research is to evaluate perceptions, awareness and experiences of digital cultural heritage in schools or cultural heritage institutions. In personal interviews and observing classroom activities participants are invited to share their own definitions, understandings and experiences with cultural heritage, and how digitalisation has transformed their experience of the past.

Consent form

Interview consent form

Interview transcripts will be archived anonymously at the Finnish Social Science Data Archive (University of Tampere) at the end of this study. Anonymous means that transcripts archived will not contain personal information (your name, place of work or other identifying information). Participants are asked to choose among the following regarding their data:

- Will be used for academic publications related to the thesis (articles, conference presentations)
- May be used for non-academic publications (blog, other)
- May be archived and shared for other research purposes

Please get in touch if you want to be removed from this research at any time (note that data already published at time of withdrawal cannot be removed). Minors are provided a separate consent form to be signed by parents.
